This work is about finding dissimilarities in genome configuration between normal and cancerous cells.

Ideally, we would need to have the 3D structure to make such comparisons, however, such data does not yet exist.

All we have is